Saddle Mountain Christmas tree lighting ceremony

For many residents of Carmel Valley the Holiday season begins when the lights come on on the 75 foot tall Christmas tree on Saddle Mountain. Since 1963, the Christmas tree has brightened the season for everyone who drives Carmel Valley Road. Traditionally, the tree lights come on in conjunction with a party, and this year will be no exception.

The Annual Open House - Tree Lighting Ceremony will be held on the first Friday of December carrying on the tradition set by the Mid Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department. Egg nog and cookies will be served and friends and neighbors can mingle around the fire house in the spirit of the Holidays. The date is Friday, December 1, 1995; Open House 6 p.m.; Tree Lighting Ceremony 6:30 p.m.

Doug Despard is this year's Official Tree Lighter. Mr. Despard, whose extensive commitment as a friend and volunteer to a multitude of services and organizations for the good of our community, has been a resident of Carmel Valley for 24 years. His list of volunteerism not only includes past Board member of the Mid Carmel Valley Fire District and current Board member of the Mid Carmel Valley Public Facilities Corporation as well as a current Residents' Council member at Carmel Valley Manor, and current Trustee for the Monterey Maritime Museum on which he has also served as a "Watch Stander", but he is also recognized as an Honorary Member of the Cachagua Fire Department for his fund raising efforts.

Mr. Despard is also a past President of the CVPOA, past President of the Big Sur Land Trust, and past President of the Monterey History of Art. He has served as a volunteer for 6 years at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula and has served on CHOMP's Facilities Committee. He is a past President of the American Red Cross Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter and participated actively as a committee member as well. He was unanimously selected by the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department Volunteers to be this year's Official Tree Lighter.

Any local persons, parties, groups, businesses or organizations wishing to enter the Fly-In Parade are urged to contact CVCYC President Dave Lyon immediately at 659-3036. All last year's entrants will be contacted by mail. The deadline to enter is December 5, 1995.

Garland Ranch Park offers docent training

Natalie Schaefer, District Naturalist for the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District, announces training for the Docent Program at Garland Ranch Regional Park in Carmel Valley. Garland Park, the largest park in the District, is nearly 5000 acres of riparian/oak woodland/coastal sage habitat, visited by thousands of people every year.

Docents will help the Park District to keep the Visitor Center open during the week, staff the Natural History Museum, lead nature walks, or visit schools in the community, among other duties. Docent training will begin in January 1996 and run through February.

Training will include knowledge of the cultural and natural history of the park, procedural information, and first aid/CPR. Anyone interested in learning more about this exciting volunteer opportunity is encouraged to call Natalie at 659-6062.

Ein Augenblick...In the blink of an eye, school is out for the summer, the CVCYC Pool is filled with chlorine and laughter, the fog bank hangs over the coast and tourists, and the Little League season ends with the Fourth of July bash-the-ball and barbecue. But note: the fields are not deserted: in the fresh of the morning, in the long afternoons when time hangs slack along the river, the Kids of Summer take to the fields; Benny and Shakal echo to what is perhaps the best baseball played--kids and gloves and bats and some spavined horsehides fished out of the bushes near the river, dads and moms throwing the occasional fireball into first or losing the easy pop-up in the lazy sunlight.

Noch ein Augenblick...Yet another moment, the light changes, the school bell rings, the Giants and the A's retire to the dugouts, the World Series commits itself (Eastern teams--faraway people of whom we know nothing), the 49ers stuck in the Stick stay steady, the fog recedes, a few tourists depart, and lo! once again it is time for Carmel Valley Little League, our very own Baseball in Paradise, to bestir itself, to reach out once again into the community it serves so well.

Those who serve this year...Most fittingly, were we to introduce the CVLL to the community, we would start with the most important people in the league. So we shall. Ladies and gentlemen, boys and girls, meet the folks who really drive this league, who provide its energy, its joy, its true reason for being: we present to you every young person who has provided passion in the past and dreams for the future, the players of Carmel Valley Little League.

Next we introduce the parents and friends of those young people, folks who spend hours in the bleachers and dollars in the snack bar; residents and visitors who volunteer time and effort and money to make sure the kids have every chance to step to the plate and take a full swing. We especially salute the men and women who coach, who umpire, who act as team parents, who paint the signs and turn the burgers, who level the fields and hand out the uniforms. We would also honor the former team members, some "fully grown to man's estate," who, swaggering only slightly, hang out around the dugouts, spit casually through their teeth, and provide some awe and magic inspiration to the young folks coming up.

Drum roll, please...We should also like to introduce the CVLL Board for 1995-96, the people who do a great deal of work and who deserve a great deal of credit. Following in the footsteps of the able Mike Thatcher, President Peter Dew will bang the gavel in the dank back room under the press-box. (Should you question the description of the room, do come visit us on a February evening). . . Jon Siegel will serve as Vice President; Deborah Warcken will once more keep the records as secretary; Wendy Thomas and Ann Murchison grip tight the purse-strings as treasurers; the man with the ear-plugs is Terry De Salvo, Umpire-in-Chief; Jamie Warren wears the flak jacket of a Player Agent; Glen Nolte (he of last year's Mean Green Machine) will serve as Major League Liaison; Rick Smith is responsible for whatever happens on the Third Field; the Gophers' Nemesis, Gary Pennington, will spread himself out as the Field and Facilities Manager; and if no one else is around to listen to your complaint, lay it on Pam Priano, who is in charge of equipment and scheduling.

In addition...Please attend our board meetings. You will find some rather delightful people present, folks like Howard Rosen, Nanci Lambert, John Bevier, Gabriella Buich, and our Most Honorary Board Member, Jim Smith. And PLEASE, much in need of Tee Ball, Gulliver Saxton, Team Parent, Scheduler, and Fund Raising Chairperson.

Coach class is first class...Now that Hallowe'en is over and we're done with pumpkins, we need coaches. You don't have to start at the top, unless you wish to emulate some government officials and aspire to high office with no experience behind you. The Tony La Russas, the Buck Showalters, the Dusty Bakers get their starts in places just as special as our own CVLL. Please help out.

It's not too early...The Super Bowl has yet to be played; overpaid young men in shorts and tank tops pirouette up and down the basketball gymnasias of America; thus baseball, the Great American Pastime, may seem far away. But Moms and Dads, NOW is the time to oil up the mitt, dust off the bat, buy a few rounds at the local batting cage, and help the kids sharpen up the skills for spring in Carmel Valley. Tryouts characteristically happen in February; plan ahead!

Special thanks...Just to keep the kids sharp, Gary Pennington is holding practice for anyone who wishes to attend once a month at Benny Field. Since November's session was on the 12th, we figure it must be the second weekend of the month. Thanks, Gary. May the Indians prosper.

Reflecting back on the defeat of the Measure C plan by the Water District; it seems that the voters made a loud clear statement.

Voters who see a direct short-term economic benefit from building a new dam to support significant growth in the Carmel Valley and nearby south coast voted "Yes". Traffic, pollution, health, and mutation of the environment are not their driving concerns. They believe that there is a way to urbanize or suburbanize this fragile space for profit.

The folks who voted "No" on Measure C should be proud of saying "No" to Clint Eastwood and the band of developers and bureaucrats, bent on short-term profits and long-term growth of construction.

"Who is kidding who"? There is no way to "build out" the Valley and mouth of the Valley and improve the environment and quality of life.

For the developers, there is a demand to show how growth will not disturb, pollute the air and ground water and saddle residents with the costs.

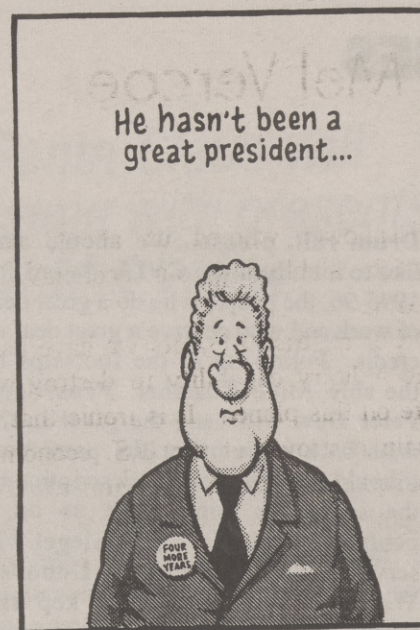

For those who wish to preserve the Valley and perhaps the whole peninsula it may be time to recognize that the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) has out-lived its $2 million per year cost to taxpayers.

The momentum is toward slow full development of the Valley and near south coast at the mouth of the Valley. Curbing the Californication of the area will require many actions: 1) dismantling the MPWMD; 2) revising the Valley "Master Plan" to halt growth; 3) persuading the state and county that this is not a growth area; and 4) addressing the pressing issues of sewage, water conservation, flood control and alternative water sources.

The Valley could be developed through far-reaching, almost futuristic development concepts that would include: 1) sewage treatment and water reclamation; 2) intensive expensive mass transit (trains, trams); 3) and environmentally sensitive designs. That takes away the quick and cheap development of years past and points toward overall Valley planning concepts that surpass Rancho San Carlos and Pebble Beach.

The turning screws are: whose view of the area prevails and who pays for the infrastructure.

The developer group and their Water District pulled out all the stops to pass Measure C. And the people said "No". Yet, the battle will continue.

VALLEY VOICE

Fran Farina

As my four year term on the Water Board comes to an end, I find myself reliving some of the highlights which helped make that period of time rocket by.

I joined the Board when a building moratorium and rationing were in place. A Water Allocation Program EIR completed in 1990 had determined that the quantity of water available from our resource system was less than assumed. This led to the building moratorium which began in January 1991. The rationing program had been in place since 1989 and was caused by the drought. Most people never understood the distinction between the two problems.

At my second meeting as a member of the Board, we addressed the formula for water allocation from the anticipated Peralta well. The technical and political committees comprised of representatives from the six Peninsula cities, county and airport district had worked a year without reaching agreement. This was typical of the inability of the jurisdictions to reach agreement on dividing limited resources. The Water Board had to make the tough decision.

Because of the length of time it was taking in getting through the permitting process for the dam as well as the ever-lengthening drought, the District sought near-term solutions for our water woes. The desalination project was moving forward on a dual track with both environmental documentation and final design occurring at the same time. A feasibility study was commissioned to see if wastewater reclamation was possible from the regional sewage treatment plant.

Water rationing ended in the summer of 1992. The rains had finally come, but the size of our water supply system had not increased, so the moratorium continued. It lasted for another year before it terminated on July 1993.

The election on the seawater desalination project occurred in June 1993. The voters rejected the project which left the dam as the only viable long-term solution for our community. The dam's environmental documentation process required evaluation of additional alternatives. The draft EIR/EIS on the dam was followed by two supplements before being certified in September 1994.

The Water District changed its election process in 1993. The original system of at-large elections was replaced by division elections.

Supervisor Karas (who serves on the Water Board) began an effort to consolidate the Peninsula Water District with the County Water Resources Agency and the regional sewer agency. Although modified to an evaluation of consolidation of services rather than agencies, LAFCO continues with its analysis.

Most of my time in 1994 and 1995 was spent finalizing the environmental documents and securing the permits so we could hold an election on the dam. The voters also rejected that project.

These were four challenging years. Now it's time for new and different challenges.

Andy Bender is right. It would be foolish for me to pass up this chance to run for the main White House job. Our country is, indeed, in deep doo doo, and needs some serious changing, and besides, Andy would make a great Secretary of State.

First thing I'd do, if I get the job, would be to completely revise the national finance and priority planning systems. Some initial steps would include: (1) Dismantle the whole Laurel and Hardy CIA intelligence system, to save us $30 billion per year, which ain't hay. (2) Shut down, completely, our vain search for intelligent life in outer space and just admit that no such thing exists, in outer space, or anyplace else.

(3) Dismantle our famous World Mother Hen programs, sending untold billions to other countries for armament, road building, housing, installation and maintenance of favorite dictators, etc. For (4) I would bring home all of the several hundred thousand military personnel that are stationed overseas to furnish protection for foreign countries. I would assign them to guard our cities and our own people. (5) I would dismantle our military-industrial complex, the one that President Eisenhower warned us about, and which is bleeding our economy to death.

For at least 30 years we have had the military capability to destroy all life on this planet. It is ironic that a main destroyer of the U.S. economy masquerades as a protector of our country.

That's for starters. After I get the job, I'll describe some of my other great plans.

LETTERS to the Editor

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

It is amazing who you see at the local unemployment office. That I would have to find my way there, is still unbelievable. Here are some thoughts to share with your readers:

Discarded Humans

I can't believe that here I sit
Applying for unemployment,
Yet able and willing to work,
Denied by those I am working for.
For forty-one years I have worked.
Appreciated by those
Who have given me the jobs,
Knowing that I give my all.
Now, I am discarded, claimed useless,
And determined nonessential.

Editor, Carmel Valley Sun:

Shame on you Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance and Carmel Fire District board members. Beware residents of Carmel Valley, Mid-Valley and Carmel. The people you have entrusted to provide you with advanced pre-hospital emergency medical care are jeopardizing your safety.

The issue of one county wide ambulance provider has been reviewed and studied extensively since 1992. That year the grand jury first recommended to county Emergency Medical Services that Monterey County would be better served by one ambulance provider. Your county EMS officials are responsible for coordinating and evaluating emergency medical services throughout the county. They have spent countless hours and thousands of dollars finding the best system to meet the needs of Monterey County residents. This new and improved system is to go into effect in January 1996. Local Carmel area Fire Department officials are totally disregarding all the professional recommendations, efforts and expense that the county has implemented towards improving your ambulance service.

Carmel Fire officials are misleading you when they say your

VALLEY FINANCE

Douglas Pease

One of my clients died recently, and I will miss her. She lived on her Social Security check and $500 a month teacher's pension, but that doesn't say it all. Her ground floor apartment was cluttered with books and the quilts she was working on, and her patio was lined with plants in various stages of bonsai training, and her fence was a joy of sweet pea colors. Her watercolors hung on the wall; scenes of Mexico where she had lived and of the redwood canyons she loved. Photos were propped on every surface; here the trip with a granddaughter to Hawaii, there the trip with another granddaughter to New York during summer vacation, and on the shelf a large print of the family gathering on Mother's Day. Photos with faces and flowers. When our business concluded it was always time for a walk around the neighborhood, with its running commentary on trees, plants and flowers surrounding the homes we passed, and who the residents were and where they came from and where their children were going, and what the neighborhood was like fifty years ago and what was likely fifty years from now. The lady was seventy years of connectedness, in two languages across five states (where she or her children had resided) and three countries she knew from loving experiences all her life. The lady knew how to live.

With regards to finances, I was more observer than advisor. She networked for her daily needs, trading time bagging bulk food at the community food bank for fresh vegetables and cereal. She traded plants and flower bulbs at her bonsai classes. Rent was modest for her sunny unit, and she planted flowers and tended them for her neighbors on both sides. She provided in-home care for people in their nineties when she needed cash for a trip. Her 1952 Chevy was a rustbucket that always ran - only God knows why - when it was time to visit her children and grandchildren. Her daily life revolved around trades and not purchases, a process which brought people into her life as partners and not clerks. She put money aside all her life because she did not need to spend it. There was enough to help her children with their down payment on a home, or to gather her clan for dinner at the restaurant on holidays, or to realize major opportunities for her grandchildren.

More than two hundred people came to her simple memorial service beside the tidepools at the beach. I took a shell from the box that held her collection from beaches all over the world, and laid it at the edge of the tide.

COMPUTER TALK

Val Healey

About the advent of the microcomputer, circa 1980, it was discovered that it was possible to set one up in what is called a "server" mode in which large numbers of files could be stored and then accessed by other simpler, less expensive microcomputers. Nowadays we tend to call microcomputers simply computers. The access could be via a single local cable to another computer or to a group of computers.

Soon the modem emerged and with it the ability to communicate via telephone wires. Both computers require a modem and the necessary software to enable them to "talk" to one another. The computer that called in was dubbed the Client and the other the Host or Server. A security system was developed for the server so that different levels of access could be provided to different callers, who had to give a certain pre-agreed password before access was granted.

Whatever files had been made available on the server to a particular caller could be "downloaded" or copied into the client. The morals of small boys were thereby protected from the corrupting and destructive influence of the file of half naked pinups that were set up by the system operator (SysOp) during coffee breaks. Without such passwords we might be a nation of moral degenerates today.

From then on it was all downhill. Companies like IBM, Hewlett Packard and thousands of others, mainly those close to the computer field soon set up their own Host/Server and it became known as a BBS or (electronic) Bulletin Board Service. That flood is still accelerating and is now converging towards the Internet.

The computer field is littered with "pioneers" who became so obsessed with computers at a very early age that they neglected most other aspects of their education. These were kids who spent every nickel they could lay their hands on to buy the necessary bits and pieces to get a computer up and running. Soon they discovered how to run a BBS and often started their own. At present there are about 70,000 BBSes in the U.S. and the Vancouver area alone has about 400. The central coast area has a whole five. Count 'em. Many of the BBSes are still very small shoestring operations but some are very professional and often charge hundreds of dollars a month for subscriptions. It is not an understatement to say that they cater to just about every aspect of our lives. We will further examine this extraordinary and generally unknown phenomenon in subsequent weeks.

State Senate Associate positions open for next year

Senator Henry Mello (D-Watsonville) announced the availability of applications for the 1996-97 California Associates Program (formerly known as California State Senate Fellows Program).

The program provides college graduates an opportunity to become full time Senate staff members working in a Senator's Capitol office or committee for eleven months. Associates also participate in academic seminars with Senators, senior staff members, lobbyists, and state government officials for which they receive 12 graduate credits from California State University, Sacramento. The program is operated jointly by the California Senate and the Center for California Studies at CSU, Sacramento.

Associates are paid a stipend of $1638. a month plus health and dental benefits.

Anyone who will graduate from college by June 1996 may apply. There is no preferred major, and there is no need to be a recent graduate. Recent associates have had majors ranging from agriculture to law to social welfare. Individuals with advanced degrees, or those in mid-career, are also urged to apply.

Those interested may get applications by visiting or calling Senator Mello's office at 1200 Aguajito Road, Room 102, Monterey. 373-0773.

The deadline for submitting applications is February 15, 1996.

ambulance service will deteriorate under the new system. It will most definitely improve. You are being told half truths by some selfish self centered bureaucrats trying to protect their jobs and gold plated benefit and retirement packages at your expense.

Under the current ambulance system there are only two ambulances serving Carmel and all of Carmel Valley. If one of those two ambulances goes on a medical call that leaves only one ambulance for the whole area. If both ambulances go on medical calls that leaves no ambulances for the entire Carmel and Carmel Valley area. After a several minute delay County communications will ask Peninsula Medics to post an ambulance at Community Hospital to temporarily cover the area.

Under the new proposed plan with Peninsula Medics if one or both of the Carmel area ambulances goes out on a medical call they will be immediately replaced by one of the 8 to 14 other ambulances Peninsula Medics will have strategically placed throughout the county.

One county wide ambulance provider has a larger pool of ambulances to choose from to cover different areas, and all of these ambulances will be coordinated by a single dispatch center that can summon another ambulance at a moments notice.

This new dispatch center run by Peninsula Medics will have medically trained dispatchers able to give life saving medical advice over the phone before the fire department or ambulance arrive. Carmel area residents will not have this service if their local fire department officials have their way.

In their press release dated 11-7-95 the board of directors for CRFA (Carmel Regional Fire Ambulance) claimed they will ensure that there are always two ambulances with paramedics on call in the Carmel Valley - Carmel corridor 24 hours a day under their system.

What a sham. Simple math tells you it's not possible. $2-1=1$, or $2-2=0$.

My parents live in Carmel Valley and I am worried for their safety under this old system. Carmel area residents please don't let your local fire department and city officials cheat you out of the ambulance service you deserve. Your County Board of Supervisors voted in favor of Peninsula Medics and one county wide ambulance provider because it works.

Star Logic
Joseph Thomas

The difference between astrology and philosophies that require faith is that astrology can be tested empirically. No excuses, no belief system required. Superstitions require belief in things that cannot be proven. Astrology requires observation over a period of time longer than, oh, let's say, once.

This column will focus on two areas that I feel are easily observable; lunar gardening, and periods when the planet Mercury goes retrograde. I will also discuss the basic nature of the signs and planets and the bi-polar, yin-yang, (masculine-feminine) nature of ...stuff.

On September 22, the planet Mercury went retrograde. Because of the difference in it's and the earth's speeds around the sun, Mercury appears to be going backwards until October 13.

If I had to choose one word to describe the effect of this phenomena, I would say delay. Reversal would be a close second. Check how many times the prefixes re and de show up. Be specific, you say? O.k. I will.

Not a good time to begin anything new. However, a good time to finish things already started. Delays involving transportation and communications. Missed appointments, misunderstandings, misstatements. Everything from "I forgot" to amnesia. Errors involving numbers, especially wrong phone numbers, time and making change. Computer and telephone problems. High profile lawsuits lost or misplaced items. Lost and runaway pets. (They forget, too). High percentage of roadkill. Accidents caused by people backing up and going the wrong way on one way streets, or the wrong side of the road. Fires, especially those caused by electrical shorts. Count the number of cars needing repair on the side of the highway. Repairs, especially electro-mechanical. "Technical difficulties" on national broadcasts. Power outages. Look for upsets, overtime games, ties, penalties, uncharacteristic errors, fines, suspensions and records set and broken in sports. Unfortunately, also injuries.

The transit has a positive side. Research will reveal new facts and discoveries. Theories, plans and ideas will be revised. Treaties and agreements can finally be signed. This can be a good time to remodel and to review documents. You will contact people you haven't heard from for a while or they will show up or call.

It is not that these events don't happen at other times; it is that they happen with much greater frequency and their effects have a noticeable magnitude. That means they will be in the news and affect many people. Probably with a typographical error. That is, if there isn't a newspaper strike, or the broadcasters don't drop their lines.

The reason for this, according to...lore, is that Mercury represents the mind. As the swiftest of Gods, (88 days around the Sun). Mercurius carried messages from the Sun, which represents something of a local God to Mankind. And Womanpersonkind, too, I suppose. Mercury also "rules" electricity, speech, writing, travel and music.

You won't have to look for these events. They will manifest in your life somehow whether you believe in astrology or not. The hard part is to be objective enough to notice the differences in frequency and magnitude between now and other times. Write and let me know your observations.

Keeley steps up to challenge Strasser-Kauffman for Assembly

Santa Cruz County Supervisor Fred Keeley's campaign for the 27th Assembly District seat picked up five endorsements:

The Democratic Women's Club of Santa Cruz County; Central Labor Councils of Monterey and Santa Cruz Counties; Service Employees International Union, Local 415 and the UC Santa Cruz College Democrats.

Karen Darling, President of the Democratic Women's Club of Santa Cruz County, said "Fred Keeley has a proven record of standing up for the rights of women and in support of reproductive rights and affirmative action on the Board of Supervisors. We are proud to join Congresswomen Anna Eshoo and Zoe Lofgren in our support of Fred's campaign."

Keeley was first elected to the Santa Cruz County Board of Supervisors in 1988 and re-elected by a wide margin in 1992.

AT&T will welcome first female competitor

Sally Voss Krueger, a San Francisco physician, will be the first female to compete in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am in nearly 20 years when the 1996 tournament gets underway, January 29, 1996. Dr. Krueger, a six time San Francisco city champion, will drive from the white tees with the other amateur contestants. Dr. Krueger was a two time All American at Stanford and also won the California State Woman's Amateur. She is a board certified anesthesiologist at California Pacific Medical Center. She and her husband, Jim, make their home in San Francisco.

Other females who have competed in this PGA TOUR event in the past include LPGA starts Beth Daniel and Nancy Lopez, who played while still in college in the 1970s.

They were not the first female participants in the tournament, however. Olympic track and field star Babe Didrickson Zaharias sent in an application to compete as a professional back in 1939 and was accepted before tournament organizers realized she was a woman. Her amateur playing partner was her husband, wrestler George Zaharias.

"Then the travel agent suggested a nice little bed-and-breakfast inn."

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde are here for their appointment."

"Number 3, step forward and say 'I recommend the veal.'"
